A palindrome is a string that reads backwards the same as it does forwards. For example, \texttt{LEVEL}. Create a function \texttt{almostPalindrome} that takes a char-array and determines if it is a palindrome or can be made into a palindrome by changing one letter. For example, the function should return true for \texttt{amanaplanacanalpanama} and \texttt{rotter} but not for \texttt{madmad}.